Foreword

The Accompanists' Guild of SA (AGSA) was the first association of accompanists formed in Australia and is one of the few Guilds of Accompanists in the world. It was from our example that Guilds were established in Queensland and NSW, a Register of Accompanists was published in 2004 in the Northern Territory and the Accompanists' Guild of the ACT was formed in 2009. With advice from AGSA, an active group of Victorian accompanists has presented summer schools in association with Choral Conferences since 2010/11 and is looking to formalize an association. AGSA's influence has extended to Wellington, New Zealand where their first Accompanists' Conference was held in 2012. In 2014 AGSA's activities were brought to the notice of the World Piano Teachers' Conference in Novi Sad Serbia resulting in considerable international interest.

AGSA has provided accompanying services for thousands of individuals and music organizations since 1983. We have encouraged 32 different winners of our major annual prize (variously known as the Accompanists' Prize, the Associate Artists' Award and the Geoffrey Parsons Award) to pursue accompanying and other collaborative piano performances as a career. Some of Australia's current finest practising accompanists and chamber musicians were our prize winners.

Our aim to elevate awareness of the accompanist/collaborative pianist continues to be emphasized in the 21st century through Accompanists' Festivals and Conferences. Recent Musicians in Residence who have added significant national and international recognition to the Guild's activities include: Phillip Moll (Berlin), David Miller (Sydney), Jean-Paul Sevilla (France), Leslie Howard (Aus/UK), Anthony Legge (Opera Australia), Michael Kieran Harvey (Aus), Timothy Young (Aus-ANAM), David Barnard (Aus/UK/NZ), Prof Vanessa Tomlinson (Aus/Qld), a welcome return in 2015 of Malcolm Martineau (Scot) Stephen Emmerson with the Endeavour Trio in 2016 and the Lisa Moore/Sonya Lifschitz piano duo in 2017 and a return visit by NSW Colleague David Miller in 2019. During 2021 we hosted pianist Daniel de Borah, with Sydney Symphony Principal cellist Umberto Clerici for our June Festival. In September one of Australia's busiest pianists and former Geoffrey Parsons Award winner, currently on staff at ANAM (Australian National Academy of Music in Melbourne), Leigh Harrold chaired the Final of the Geoffrey Parsons Award. Due to Covid travel restrictions, Finalist performances were, for the first time, on-line and screened to a live audience. The winner was Melbourne pianist Yasmin Rowe.

2022 saw another FIRST - the Collaborative Pianist Award for 15-22 year old South Australians, won by Cindy Luo, which concluded the 2022 “Piano, Words and Song” Festival. Artists-in-Residence were visiting Dr. Nicole Panizza, Peter Goldsworthy AM and Adelaide soprano Teresa La Rocca.

2023 is AGSA’s Ruby Anniversary, the celebration beginning with a visit from our international patron Phillip Moll in February, a Government House Reception for AGSA members and friends, JEMs and YAS events in May and June, Ruby Festival in August and Ruby GPA in September – so, a well filled year!

In building awareness of the significance of the accompanist from the ground up, the Guild’s educational program provides a variety of educational opportunities for pianists at all levels of experience.

These include:

- At Primary School level – Our JEMs (Junior Ensemble Musicians) are Primary School ensembles from duos to quintets who work with Monika Laczofy.
- At Secondary School level – YAS (Young Accompanists’ Showcase), convened by Gina Macri, joins student pianists with professional musicians for rehearsals, a master class and two public concerts.
- At Tertiary level, student duos and ensembles are included in the Festival concerts and have the opportunity to enter the Geoffrey Parsons Award.
- At Professional level the Geoffrey Parsons Award is available for aspiring advanced students as well as established accompanists (maximum age 36).
- At Professional level the Guild has provided opportunities for repetiteur mentorships with Co-Opera and State Opera of SA.
- Composition Awards in 2014, 2016, 2018, 2020 for 2021 and 2022 encourage emerging composers to write for the visiting artists.
- I’m proud to say the Guild continues to vigorously maintain its projects despite escalating costs and the 2020 Covid-19 disruptions. Our programs, particularly remembering the tremendous concert with 2 to 32 pianos, continue to attract support by audiences and sponsors.

Long may AGSA continue to highlight accompanists in their working lives and remind all music lovers of the significance of the Accompanist/Collaborative Pianist.

Accompanists' Code of Practice

With thanks to the Accompanists' Guild of Queensland for the use of their Code of Practice as a basis for the AGSA Code.

AIMS

To provide the best accompaniment possible for our clients in an environment that promotes rapport and encourages confidence and freedom of expression. To support and guide our clients towards excellence in performance by sharing our knowledge of style and interpretation, helping to develop artistic flair and all that leads to a successful musical outcome for all concerned.

To this end it is important that an accompanist:

- gives adequate attention to preparation prior to the first rehearsal so that rehearsal time is not wasted
- is prepared to decline an invitation should a work be too difficult for a reasonably successful performance
- provides information about communication skills which will assist ensemble (attack, release, togetherness)
- engenders enthusiasm for the music being studied and for music making as an art
- is sensitive and professional when pointing out errors in another's work, avoiding offence or implication that a teacher lacks musical integrity
- treats performance at all levels of development with equal respect and musical attention
- encourages respect for the value of the accompanist as a significant musical partner
- presents a professional image of the profession of the accompanist by attention to matters such as dress, punctuality, reliability, honesty and efficient administration of accounts
- is careful to avoid double booking of rehearsal/performance times
- makes prompt and early contact with a client should a problem arise which may require reorganisation
- observes the requirements of the Australian Copyright Act (1968) by ensuring that original copies of Copyright music are used in performance
- does not bring the reputation of the profession of the Accompanist or the Accompanists' Guild of SA into disrepute through any form of unprofessional behaviour.

Guidelines for Payment of Accompanists

The Guild cannot dictate the level of fees for accompanists. The Council has, however, been requested to recommend guidelines for accompanists and for present and prospective employers regarding payment.

The Council recommends that the minimum fee for a professional accompanist should be $75 per hour. This is just slightly less than the latest minimum fee recommended by the Music Teachers' Association of SA for studio teachers.

To those wishing to engage accompanists, the Guild suggests the following hourly rates: (in line with Music Teachers' Association rates)

Amateur	$50
Semi-professional	$65
Professional	$75 (or as negotiated)

Some accompanists may prefer to arrange a "package", e.g. $200- $600 for the rehearsals and performances required.

The Council urges all accompanists to make their fees clear before undertaking accompanying work. It is recommended that accompanists provide a written form outlining their fees and conditions before rehearsals commence and issue a written invoice. It is suggested that payment be made after each rehearsal or 50% in advance if a series is arranged.

It must be realised that the accompanists should also be paid for performances after the series of rehearsals. Some accompanists may charge for time spent in transit or waiting for performances or may simply ask for a minimum fee regardless of time spent accompanying.

In this Register, accompanists describe themselves as Professional, Semi-professional or Amateur. This is not necessarily an indication of the standard of their work. It is more likely to reflect a) their tertiary qualifications or b) their experience or c) the percentage of work they currently undertake as accompanists.

General Information – The Register

1. This Register, of Accompanists who are resident in South Australia and beyond, has been compiled by the Guild. All pianists included in the Register are AGSA members.
2. The information provided has been supplied by the accompanists themselves. The Guild accepts no responsibility for its accuracy.
3. All negotiations for accompanying services and fees are to be mutually arranged between the accompanist and those employing their services. The Guild will not enter into any such negotiations. (See “Guidelines for Payment”)
4. The Guild will not provide further information regarding the accompanists listed.
5. All status ratings (Professional, Semi-professional and Amateur) are each accompanist's own submission. The Guild accepts no responsibility for the accuracy of status. As of 2007 an upgrade of status must be approved by the AGSA Council i.e. applicants may be required to provide a resume of their credentials and experience and undertake a short audition.
6. Copies of the Register of Accompanists are free to members and will be distributed to various institutions. They are also available from the Guild for $10.00. Send in the order form at the end of this booklet or phone 0411 271 215.
7. The Guild cannot be held responsible for the conduct of members. However, reports of unprofessional behaviour by members received by the Guild Council will be investigated and may result in exclusion from subsequent Membership.
8. Most of the AGSA members listed in this Register are also listed on the Guild's website: www.accompanist.org.au
